VOTING AT ANNUAL MEETING

GENERAL

The close of business on the Record Date of March 15, 2006 has been fixed as the record date for determination of the shareholders entitled to notice of, and to vote at, the Annual Meeting (the "Record Date"). As of the Record Date, there were issued and outstanding 25,787,696 shares of Common Stock entitled to vote. A majority of such shares will constitute a quorum for the transaction of business at the Annual Meeting. The holders of record on the Record Date of the shares entitled to be voted at the Annual Meeting are entitled to cast one vote per share on each matter submitted to a vote at the Annual Meeting. All action proposed herein may be taken upon a favorable vote of the holders of a majority of such shares of Common Stock represented at the Annual Meeting provided a quorum is present at the meeting in person or by proxy.

PROXIES

Shares of Common Stock which are entitled to be voted at the Annual Meeting and which are represented by properly executed proxies will be voted in accordance with the instructions indicated in such proxies. If no instructions are indicated, such shares will be voted: (1) FOR the election of the individuals to the Corporation's Board of Directors, (2) FOR the ratification of the selection of independent registered auditors; (3) FOR the amendment of the Company's Bylaws as to determination of a quorum of shareholders; (4) FOR the Ratification and approval of the 2006 Employee Stock Incentive Plan; (5) At the discretion of the proxy holder, any other matters which may properly come before the Annual Meeting.

A shareholder who has executed and returned a proxy may revoke it at any time before it is voted at the Annual Meeting by executing and returning a proxy bearing a later date, by giving written notice of revocation to the Secretary of the Corporation, or by attending the Annual Meeting and voting in person. A proxy is not revoked by the death or incompetence of the maker unless, before the authority granted thereunder is exercised, written notice of such death or incompetence is received by the Corporation from the executor or administrator of the estate or from a fiduciary having control of the shares represented by such proxy.

Each of these matters must be approved by the affirmative vote of a majority of shares present in person or represented by proxy at the meeting and entitled to vote. Abstention from voting will have the practical effect of voting against these matters since it is one less vote for approval. Broker non-votes, shares held by brokers or nominees for the accounts of others as to which voting instructions have not been given, will be treated as shares that are present for determining a quorum, but will not be counted for purposes of determining the number of votes cast with respect to a proposal. Brokers and nominees, under applicable law, may vote shares for which no instructions have been given in their discretion in the election of directors.

The Corporation will bear all the cost and expenses relating to the solicitation of proxies, including the costs of preparing, printing and mailing this Proxy Statement and accompanying material to shareholders. In addition to the solicitation of proxies by use of the mails, the directors, officers, and employees of the Corporation, without additional compensation, may solicit proxies personally or by telephone or telegram.

1. ELECTION OF DIRECTORS

It is intended that the proxies solicited hereby will be voted for the election of the nominees for directors listed below, unless authority to do so has been withheld. The Board of Directors knows of no reason why its nominees will be unable to accept election. However, if the nominees become unable to accept election, the Board will either reduce the number of directors to be elected or select substitute nominees. If substitute nominees are selected, proxies will be voted in favor of such nominees.

The nominees for Directors, whose terms, if elected, will expire at the annual meeting in the year indicated and certain additional information with respect to the nominees are as follows:

MANAGEMENT RECOMMENDS THAT THE STOCKHOLDERS VOTE “FOR” THE NOMINEES TO THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE COMPANY

2. RATIFICATION OF SELECTION OF INDEPENDENT REGISTERED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS

Williams & Webster, P.S., independent public accountants, have again been selected by the Board of Directors as the independent registered accountants for the Corporation for the fiscal year ending December 31, 2006, subject to approval by the shareholders. Williams & Webster, P.S., has served as an independent auditor for the Corporation since the fiscal year ended December 31, 2000. This firm is experienced in the field of accounting and is well qualified to act in the capacity of auditor and tax service provider. Williams & Webster, P.S., will not be represented at the annual meeting, but questions from shareholders will be presented to the auditors for response. Williams & Webster, P.S. will not be represented at the annual meeting, but questions from shareholders will be presented to the auditors for response.

Stockholder ratification of the selection of Williams & Webster, P.S. as the Company's independent registered public accountants is not required by the Bylaws or otherwise. However, Management is submitting the selection of Williams & Webster, P.S. to the stockholders for ratification as a matter of corporate practice. If the stockholders fail to ratify the selection, Management will reconsider whether or not to retain that firm. Even if the selection is ratified, Management in its discretion may direct the appointment of a different independent accounting firm at any time during the year if the Audit Committee determines that such a change would be in the best interests of the Company and its stockholders.

The affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the shares present in person or by proxy and entitled to vote at the Annual Meeting is required to ratify the selection of Williams & Webster, P.S..

MANAGEMENT RECOMMENDS THAT THE STOCKHOLDERS VOTE "FOR" ITEM 2

3. TO AMEND THE COMPANY'S BYLAWS DETERMINING QUORUM REQUIREMENTS.

The Bylaws presently provide for the determining a quorum of shareholders, based on a majority of shares outstanding. Under the laws of the State of Nevada (NRS 78.320), a quorum is a majority of the voting power, including the voting power present in person or by proxy, regardless of whether the proxy has authority to vote on all matters. Unfortunately, the Company has had difficulty in having a quorum for the last two annual meetings due to broker non-votes and nominees. Nevada law is silent on the issue of broker non-votes, abstentions, and nominees as they may affect determination of a quorum.

A broker non-vote generally occurs when a registered broker, who holds securities in street name, has not received voting instructions from a customer having beneficial ownership in the securities. A broker who is registered under the Exchange Act and registered with an exchange or stock market is subject to rules of conduct in dealing with its customers. In particular, when a broker receives proxy materials, including a notice of annual meeting, the broker must under these rules timely forward the proxy materials to the beneficial owner of the stock. The broker must also inform the beneficial owner of the limited time period and necessity for completing the proxy card and forwarding it to the company prior to expiration of that time period in order for the shares to be represented at the meeting. This rule simply prohibits discretionary voting by the broker without explicit instructions from the beneficial owner.

In this instance, a question immediately arises as to whether, and to what extent, a broker may vote the shares in conjunction with a meeting. If a resolution is presented to the annual meeting is a "routine item" then broker non-votes, nominees, and abstentions are counted towards determining a quorum. A "routine item" includes director voting and ratification of auditors for the Company. Unfortunately, if a "non routine item" is presented to shareholders, then broker non-votes, nominees, and abstentions are not counted towards determining a quorum. A "non-routine item" includes resolutions approving or affecting equity compensation plans, changes to the Company's Articles of Incorporation and Bylaws, as well as all other matters that are not "routine" and shareholder initiatives.

The immediate challenge to management in organizing and holding the meeting is having assurance, in advance, of the presence of a quorum of the shares outstanding for it. Without the presence of a quorum in person or by proxy, Nevada state law prohibits the meeting going forward. For the Annual Meeting of Shareholders one year prior to the most recent meeting, this had resulted in continuation of the Annual Meeting of Shareholders until a quorum was achieved, entailing unwarranted proxy solicitations and expenses, as well as then possibility that no Annual Meeting of Shareholders would be held.

The proposed change to the bylaws, would clarify that in all matters presented to shareholders then broker non-votes, nominees, and abstentions are counted towards determining a quorum.

Article II Section 2.6 of the proposed amendments to the Bylaws provides that abstentions, nominees, and broker-non-votes would count for purposes of determining a quorum.

Amendment of Article II Section 2.6 of the current By-law provision requires the approval of more than 50% of the outstanding shares of the Company.

Text of proposed Amendment to Bylaws.

It is proposed that Article II, section 2.6 be amended as follows:

ARTICLE II SHAREHOLDERS

2.6 Quorum and Adjourned Meetings. A majority of the voting power of the corporation entitled to vote, represented in person or by proxy, shall constitute a quorum at a meeting of the shareholders. If less than a majority of the voting power entitled to vote are represented at a meeting, a majority of the shares so represented may adjourn the meeting from time to time without further notice. If a quorum is present or represented at a reconvened meeting following such an adjournment, any business may be transacted that might have been transacted at the meeting as originally called. The shareholders present at a duly organized meeting may continue to transact business until adjournment, notwithstanding the withdrawal of enough shareholders to leave less than a quorum. For purposes of determining "a majority of the voting power of the corporation entitled to vote", abstentions and shares held by brokers or nominees for the accounts of others, as to which voting instructions have not been given will be treated as a majority of the voting power of the corporation entitled to vote, and such shares shall be counted as present for determining a quorum.

MANAGEMENT RECOMMENDS THAT THE STOCKHOLDERS VOTE FOR THIS PROPOSAL

4. RATIFICATION AND APPROVAL OF THE 2006 EMPLOYEE STOCK INCENTIVE PLAN.

The following is merely a summary of the more important provisions of the 2006 Employee Stock Incentive Plan. The reader is urged to review Appendix A for the actual terms and conditions of the Plan.

Effective January 20, 2006, the board of directors adopted, subject to shareholder approval, the 2006 Employee Stock Incentive Plan. The aggregate number of shares of common stock that could be awarded under the plan is 1,275,135, of which none have been granted. The plan permits the Board to grant qualified options with an exercise price of not less than the fair market value on the date of grant, and non-qualified options at an exercise price of not less than eighty-five percent (85%) of the fair market value of the underlying shares of common stock on the date of the grant. The plan permits the Board to grant options with a term of up to ten years for certain qualified options and not more than five years for options granted to a person holding 10% or more of our stock. However, no options will be issued with a term longer than five years.

Description of the 2006 Employee Stock Incentive Plan

The discussion herein is based upon United States law and does not reflect the laws of any state, territory or foreign jurisdiction. Individuals are cautioned to seek the advice of their financial adviser or counselor.

General. The 2006 Employee Stock Incentive Plan is a non qualified deferred compensation plan under Section 401(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the "Code"), nor is it subject to the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended.

Purpose. The purpose of the 2006 Employee Stock Incentive Plan is to provide an incentive to eligible employees, management, directors, consultants and advisors of the Company whose present and potential contributions are important to the continued success of the Company, to afford these individuals the opportunity to acquire a proprietary interest in the Company; and to enable the Company to enlist and retain the best available talent for the conduct of its business. It is intended that this purpose will be effected through the granting of Stock Options, although the 2006 Employee Stock Incentive Plan does provide for the issuance of Stock Appreciation Rights or Common Stock.

Eligibility. Under the 2006 Employee Stock Incentive Plan eligible individuals affiliated with the Company include: any employees, officers, Directors, and advisors.

Administration. The 2006 Employee Stock Incentive Plan will be administered by the Compensation Committee, or if no Compensation Committee has been appointed then the Board of Directors will administer the 2006 Employee Stock Incentive Plan. The Compensation Committee will have the authority to select, from among eligible persons, the individuals to whom awards will be granted, the number of shares of stock subject to each award, the dates on which the awards will be granted, the pricing and vesting of any awards, to make any combination of awards to any participant and to determine the specific terms of each award. The interpretation and construction of any provision of the 2006 Employee Stock Incentive Plan by the administrators shall be final and conclusive.

Reserved Shares. The total number of shares of Common Stock, $0.001 par value ("Common Stock"), reserved and available for distribution under the 2006 Employee Stock Incentive Plan will be 1,275,135 shares of common stock of which none have been granted under the 2006 Employee Stock Incentive Plan. The remaining 1,275,135 shares will be reserved for issuance under the terms and conditions of the 2006 Employee Stock Incentive Plan.

Vesting and Forfeitability. Under the 2006 Employee Stock Incentive Plan, the vesting of any award is determined by the Compensation Committee.

Pricing. Under the 2006 Employee Stock Incentive Plan, exercise of a particular option shall be such price, will be fixed by the Committee, subject to the Plan limitations of not less than 85% of (whichever is appropriate) (i) the average closing bid price for the Common Stock on either the Over-the-Counter Bulletin Board ("OTCBB") or the "Pink Sheets" (wherever the Company is then trading) for the twenty (20) days prior to five business days prior to the grant of the stock options; (ii) the highest price at which Common Stock has been sold within 90 days of grant or, (iii) if no Common Stock has been sold within 90 days of grant, then the last offering price in any sale of Common Stock (if the Company's stock is not then traded).

Stock Options. The 2006 Employee Stock Incentive Plan permits the granting of non-transferable stock options that either qualify as incentive stock options under Section 422 of the Code ("Incentive Stock Options" or "ISOs") or do not so qualify ("Nonstatutory Stock Options" or "NSOs"). The term of each option will be fixed by the administrators but may not exceed ten years from the date of grant in the case of ISOs. The Committee will determine the time or times each option may be exercised. Options may be made exercisable in installments, exercisability may be suspended during certain leaves of absence or reductions in work hours and the exercisability of options may be accelerated by the Committee. The option exercise price for each share covered by an ISO will not be less than 100% of the fair market value of a share of Common Stock on the date of grant of such option. The option exercise price for each share covered by an NSO will be determined by the administrators.

The consideration to be paid for shares issued upon exercise of options granted under the 2006 Employee Stock Incentive Plan, including the method of payment, shall be determined by the administrators and may consist entirely of (i) cash or check, (ii) other shares of Common Stock, (iii) the delivery of a properly executed notice together with such other documentation as the administrators and the broker, if applicable, shall require to effect an exercise of the option and delivery to the Company of the sale or loan proceeds required to pay the exercise price, (iv) any combination of the foregoing methods, or (v) such other consideration and methods as are permitted by applicable laws.

All options granted under the 2006 Employee Stock Incentive Plan shall be evidenced by a stock option agreement between the Company and the optionee to whom such option is granted. Options granted to persons subject to Section 16 of the Exchange Act may impose additional restrictions necessary to comply with Rule 16b-3.

Nontransferability. Options granted pursuant to the 2006 Employee Stock Incentive Plan are nontransferable by the participant, other than by will or by the laws of descent and distribution or a Qualified Domestic Relations Order, and may be exercised, during the lifetime of the participant, only by the participant.

Stock Appreciation Rights ("SAR's"). A Stock Appreciation Right (SAR) is a contractual right to receive, either in cash or employer stock, the appreciation in the value of the employer's stock over a certain period of time. SAR's involve actual stock ownership by the Employee, unless stock is issued in payment of the SAR. If cash is issued in payment for the SAR, there will be no dilution of Company stock ownership. In addition, the Employee does not receive dividend rights, nor does the Employee have voting rights. A SAR gives an eligible employee the right to obtain the future appreciation in stock without any investment risk. In addition, a SAR used in conjunction with a stock option enables eligible individuals to exercise options without a cash outlay. Eligible employees generally do not make any out-of-pocket payments to acquire their rights with respect to a SAR. The Company will be required to make a cash outlay in the amount of the SAR payments, if such amounts are to be paid in cash. Normally, eligible individuals determine when to exercise the SAR and the Company cannot control the timing of the required cash outlay. For financial accounting purposes, the Company is required to accrue a charge against earnings for the amount of its liabilities under outstanding SAR's. The amount generally is accrued quarterly in the amount of the quarterly increase in value of the Company's stock (for SAR's).

Common Stock. The Plan also permits an outright grant of stock, usually at nominal or no cost. The difference is that a restricted stock plan usually has vesting restrictions, which affords some tax deferral as well as encouraging employee retention. Typically an award of restricted stock will not vest until the employee has completed a specified period of service with the employer. During the restricted period, however, participants are considered the owners of the stock and will, therefore, be entitled to receive the dividends and to vote the shares during the restricted period.

Since no stock or cash is needed by an employee to acquire restricted stock, there is significant value inherent in the award at the time of the grant. Employee taxability is deferred until full vesting occurs. During the restricted period, however, participants are considered the owners of the stock and will, therefore, be entitled to receive the dividends and to vote the shares during the restricted period.

Amendment and Termination. The Board may amend, alter, suspend or discontinue the 2006 Employee Stock Incentive Plan at any time, but such amendment, alteration, suspension or discontinuation shall not adversely affect any Stock Option then outstanding in the 2006 Employee Stock Incentive Plan, without the written consent of the participant. To the extent necessary and desirable to comply with Section 422 of the Internal Revenue Code (or any other applicable law or regulation), the Company shall obtain shareholder approval of any amendment to the 2006 Employee Stock Incentive Plan in such a manner and to such a degree as required. Subject to applicable laws and the specific terms of the 2006 Employee Stock Incentive Plan, the administrators may accelerate any option, right or award or waive any condition or restriction pertaining to such option at any time. The administrators may also substitute new options, rights or awards for previously granted options, including previously granted options having higher option prices and may reduce the exercise price of any option.

Certain Federal Income Tax Considerations

The following is a brief summary of the federal income tax consequences of transactions under the 2006 Employee Stock Incentive Plan based on federal securities and income tax laws in effect on July 1, 2005. This summary is not intended to be exhaustive and does not discuss the tax consequences of a participant's death or provisions of the income tax laws of any municipality, state or foreign country in which an optionee may reside.

Nonstatutory Stock Options. Except as noted below, with respect to Nonstatutory Stock Options, (i) no income is recognized by the optionee at the time the option is granted; (ii) generally, at exercise, ordinary income is recognized by the optionee in an amount equal to the difference between the option exercise price paid for the shares and the fair market value of the shares on the date of exercise, and the Company is entitled to a tax deduction in the same amount; and (iii) at disposition, any gain or loss is treated as capital gain or loss. In the case of an optionee who is also an employee, any income recognized upon exercise of a Nonstatutory Stock Option will constitute wages for which withholding will be required. However, different rules may apply if restricted stock is purchased or if shares are purchased by an optionee who is also an officer, director or more than 10% shareholder. See discussion below of "Special Rules Applicable to Corporate Insiders and Restricted Stock Purchasers."

Incentive Stock Options. The grant of an incentive stock option would not result in income for the optionee or a deduction for the Company. The exercise of an incentive stock option would not result in income for the optionee if the optionee (i) does not dispose of the shares within two years after the date of grant or one year after the transfer of shares upon exercise and (ii) is an employee of the Company or a subsidiary of the Company from the date of grant and through and until three months before the exercise date. If these requirements are met, the basis of the shares upon later disposition would be the option price. Any gain will be taxed to the employee as long-term capital gain and the Company would not be entitled to a deduction. The excess of the market value on the exercise date over the option price is an item of tax preference, potentially subject to the alternative minimum tax. Generally, to qualify as an ISO, an option must be granted at an exercise price equal to the fair market value of the optioned stock on the date the option is granted (without regard to any restrictions on the stock that will expire at some future time). An employee who owns stock possessing more than 10% of the total combined voting power of all classes of stock of the company (or of any parent or subsidiary of the company) cannot be granted an ISO at an exercise price less than 110% of the fair market value of the stock subject to the ISO on the date the option is granted. The term of an incentive stock option cannot exceed 10 years, and the term of an incentive stock option granted to a holder of more than 10% of our voting power cannot exceed five years.

Special Rules Applicable to Corporate Insiders and Restricted Stock Purchasers. Generally, individuals subject to Section 16(b) of the Exchange Act ("Insiders") and individuals who purchase stock may have their recognition of compensation income and the beginning of their capital gains holding period deferred for up to six months after option exercise (for Insiders), or until the restrictions lapse (for restricted stock purchasers) (the "Deferral Date"), with the excess of the fair market value of the stock determined as of the Deferral Date over the purchase price being taxed as ordinary income, and the tax holding period for any subsequent gain or loss beginning on the Deferral Date. However, an Insider or restricted stock purchaser who so elects under Code Section 83(b) on a timely basis may instead be taxed on the difference between the excess of the fair market value on the date of transfer over the purchase price, with the tax holding period beginning on such date. Similar rules apply for alternative minimum tax purposes with respect to the exercise of an Incentive Stock Option by an Insider.

Capital Gains. Generally, under law in effect as of July 1, 2005, net capital gain (net long-term capital gain minus net short-term capital loss) is taxed at a maximum rate of 15%. Capital losses are allowed in full against capital gains plus up to $3,000 of other income.

Payment for Option Exercise Price. Payment of the option exercise price may be in cash or, to the extent permitted by the Committee, by delivery of previously owned Company stock having a fair market value equal to the option price or a combination of cash and stock. The Committee may also permit certain "cashless" option exercises by allowing optionees to surrender portions of their options in payment for the stock to be received.

Stock Appreciation Rights ("SAR's"). The payment made to an eligible individual from an SAR, whether paid in cash, stock or some other form of consideration, is taxable to the eligible individual as ordinary income at the time received. There is no preferential tax treatment, nor is there any deferral of the tax beyond the time of payment.

Tax Deduction-Company. The Company receives a tax deduction for the amount of the SAR at the time the payment amount is required to be included in the eligible individual's income and taxed to the eligible individual. The amount of the tax deduction is equal to the amount of the payment.

Withholding. The Company is required to withhold for federal income tax purposes and FICA, FUTA and Medicare purposes on SARs granted to eligible individuals. If the amount of the SAR is paid by the Company in cash, the required amount to be withheld generally would be taken from the cash payment. Depending upon when in the tax year the SAR amount is paid, FICA and FUTA may or may not be required to be withheld. If the payment or exercise occurs later in the year, the eligible individual may be over the required wage base amount for FICA and FUTA taxes. However, the Medicare withholding tax is not subject to a wage base limit and will apply, regardless of the timing of the payment or exercise.

Corporate Charges Against Earnings. For financial accounting purposes, the Company is required to accrue a charge against earnings for the amount of its liabilities under outstanding SARs. The amount generally is accrued quarterly in the amount of the quarterly increase in value of the Company's stock for SARs.

Common Stock. The Common Stock of the Company is considered as restricted, meaning there is no ability to freely resell the Company's stock due to State and Federal Securities laws, unless registered. The tax disadvantages of a stock award program to the Company also include (i) taxation for the eligible individual; (ii) payroll tax withholding requirements; and, (iii) need for accurate valuation of the shares being awarded. Since no stock or cash is needed by an eligible individual to acquire restricted stock, there is significant value inherent in the award at the time of the grant. Eligible individual taxability is deferred until full vesting occurs. In addition, the tax deduction afforded to the Company will equal the price or value of the stock at the time the restrictions lapse. There is a charge to the Company's earnings for accounting purposes generally based on the price of the stock at the time of grant, and, if the restrictions are service based, no additional charge to earnings is required if the stock appreciates in value. As a result, if the stock price increases, the tax deduction accruing to the Company at the time the restrictions lapse may actually exceed the accounting charge. Furthermore, the initial accounting charge is typically spread over the entire restricted period.

There are no proposed option grants at the present time.
